"Don Woodard likes to call his work, Fine Art in Wood, and he's not wrong with that title." - Western Art Collector Magazine

Don has been creating his mixed media, relief style of artwork for over 20 years and has been showing his work at nationally juried art shows since 2012. Creating 3-dimensional artwork is Don's passion and it allows him to blend detailed wood carving with fine painting, which is being well received by art collectors.

Woodard has been leading pack-horse trips into the Rocky Mountain Wilderness for about 40 years. He has extensive experience riding in the mountains and has seen pristine wilderness country few people have ever seen. The pictures included in his Pack Horse Adventure Collection are taken from various pack-horse trips over the years.

Many of the artworks created by Don have been inspired from events that have occurred during these rides. From scenes of wildlife, to western themes (and mis-adventures), to landscapes, they all have been experienced in person.
