Your Name: Reeghan Arp

Title of this composition: Glassfields in Bloom

This piece was created to capture the beauty of nature in a unique and artistic way, transforming a simple window into a stained-glass-inspired scene. I wanted to highlight the breathtaking qualities of the natural world and express their appreciation for its elegance through vibrant colors and layered textures. By experimenting with different techniques, I aimed to merge elements of stained glass and watercolor aesthetics into an original composition that reflects their love for nature.
