My Hidden Face

This mask is a representation of how I act and actually feel. The white flowery side shows a happy, pretty and normal face, representing the mask I put on for society. The cracked darker side shows my inner feelings and emotions. I used the bright colors on the flowers to try and imitate the first reference photo's style. For the right side of the mask I wanted to do a style similar to the second photo below.

Van Frog-Starry Night

I would say this is a silly painting because Van Gogh is showing that he has a frog head but it also is showing school spirit because the frog is Pratt High's mascot.

Title-NA

I think the emotion shown should be scary but in the same sense it can be viewed as beautiful. Some of my challenges were drawing the hands and making sure they were all the same size, shading the small areas of the flower and the small details within the hands.
