
Wesley Liggett
The Running Shoe

For this project, I used colored pencil, paper, newspaper, and graphite to create a shoe composition. The most challenging part was getting the proportions right to match the reference image that I was using. My favorite part was improving my shading skills. The message behind my artwork is simply that shoes are cool. It is an original composition that used AI to help generate several shoe designs. I found the creative vision I had and wanted to create based on my research. This project helped me develop my information use and technology skills by applying shading techniques and experimenting with color blending.

